

>: The first 3 questions to ask before investing in a private company.

Friday, February 22, 2008 / Lester

1. How much money and what % of your assets are you investing?
2. How much are family and friends investing?
3. How much do you intend to pay yourself in the first 3-5 years?

Upon submitting these questions in response to your request, I failed to see why the 100 word minimum. I was at first going to email you with my disgust of this requirement. But after starting to complete the contact form, I remembered this occurring in college and other times and decided to fulfill this requirement the same way (almost). This fulfills the requirement of a 100 words.
